GRENADA, MISS., THURSDAY, SEPT. 2, 1937

NUMBER 15

CITY SCHOOLS TO OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 13

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the City Schools, it was decided to open the City Schools on the 13th, rather than on the 9th in order that all danger from infantile paralysis shall have passed.

Pupils will report for book lists and schedules on the dates previously announced:

High School
Monday, September 6th, 9th grade.
Tuesday, September 7th, 10th grade.
Wednesday, September 8th, 11th and 12th grades.

Children who have not heretofore been pupils in Grenada City Schools must bring their report cards from schools last attended. High School pupils entering from another school must give the superintendent the name of school last attended that a transcript may be obtained by the superintendent on which to base pupil's classification. New high school pupils will not be classified until the superintendent secures their records from previous schools attended.

All pupils entering from Fair Ground District will be required to pay tuition for the first month on entrance to the school; in the elementary school, $4.50; in the high school, $6.00. This requirement is necessary for the county superintendent informs us that he will not have funds for the Fair Ground District children for the entire nine months. We are informed by the county superintendent that funds are available for pupils from all the other districts for the full nine months.

Free Picture Show at County - Wide Farmers' Meeting

County Cooperative Organization to Manage Cold Storage and Warehouse Plant

(By J. L. Cooley, County Agent)
All farmers are urged to attend the county-wide farmers' meeting at the Grenada Theatre at 9:30 a. m., Saturday, September 4, Mr. J. W. Willis, State Extension Department, and Mr. E. B. Ferris of the Holly Springs Experiment Station will give a free moving picture showing; the value of growing winter legume crops both to prevent soil erosion and for soil improvement; proper dates of planting and rates of seeding. Actual pictures will show the increased production of corn and cotton following crops of vetch, Austrian winter peas and burr clover.

The Grenada County Farmers' Cooperative has been organized to manage our Cold Storage Warehouse Plant. One carload each of winter cover crop seed and basic slag (lime and phosphate) fertilizer has been ordered and will be available to the farmers of Grenada and adjoining counties at an early date.

Where Are Our High School Graduates?

We have often wondered where each and everyone of our high school graduates are and where these are going who graduate this coming session. THE RHODES BAKER FAMILY

(By W. E. BOUSHE)

A family of especial interest to us, not only for the part it has taken in the history of Grenada county, but the country in general. Venerable in the annals of both, is the Rhodes Baker family. The Bakers originally as did many other early settlers, came to this country in its infancy, to avoid religious differences with the church of England, first settling in Virginia. The grand father of Mr. Rhodes Baker moved to Milledgeville, Ga. He had two sons, both fine men, Joe and Francis. Francis was a primitive, "Generally called hard shell Baptist preacher." (My own family were originally hard-shells). Francis, the ancestor of the subjects of this article, married Miss Nancy DuBose, a cousin of the well-known and admired Bishop DuBose of the Methodist church. They were the parents of a noble family, four daughters and six sons, all honorable God-fearing people. One day following a terrific cloud burst, which destroyed all he had accumulated, Mr. Francis Baker believing the Lord had visioned him to leave, moved to Alabama, later on moving to Grenada county, then a part of Yalobusha county. Just after the signing of Dancing Rabbit Treaty, though the Indians were still numerous and the wilderness vast, he settled on the place now known as Mt. Lore where Bryan Baker, a great grand son, still makes his home. Mr. Francis Baker's family believed this place the place envisioned to him by the Lord. At this place was the then town of Troy, now gone, almost forgotten, an important steamboat town on the Yalobusha.

Mr. Francis Baker and his son, Rhodes, immediately took up their Herculean task of making light in the clearing. At once going to the forefront of community affairs. All the family without exception, became well known and valuable assets to our country. Mr. Francis Baker always deeply religious, began at once to look around to find a place to build a church. So together with the Talberts, Bowles, Collins, Hardys, Griffiths, Stokes and others, built a Baptist church near Hardy, called Antioch. In the meantime his family grew to be men and women, married and had homes of their own. Mr. Rhodes Baker, of whom I especially write, who upon the death of his father, Francis, carried on at Mt. Lore, married Miss Martha Jane Talbert, the daughter of Mr. Michael Talbert and Polly Truitt Talbert, already written about in another article, on Michael Talbert family, who had come to this place from South Carolina. To them were born who lived to be grown five sons, Andrew Jackson Baker, William Rushton, Clifton, Jeff Davis, and Eppinetus Rhodes, two daughters, Martha Ann and Fannie Lee. The son Andrew, served in the 11th Mississippi with honor in the Civil War. Was captured at Gettysburg. After several ventures in business after the war he studied law shortly afterwards, moving to Texas, having previously married into the prominent Kearney family. Mr. Baker was from the first a success, serving in the legislature with distinction, was land commissioner, was a leading candidate for Vice President of the United States in 1912, when he died. His son Rhodes Baker, Jr., is one of the most prominent lawyers of Texas. The next son of Mr. Rhodes Baker, Mr. Wm. Rushton, is well known and respected by all, it was he who carried on at Mt. Lore, the old Baker home upon the death of his father. He was a planter of no mean ability, served several years as supervisor, always progressive, he loved his home very dearly, was the parent of a nice family. His son Bryan an energetic, progressive, intelligent young man carried on at Mt. Lore upon the death of his father, Mr. Rushton, a few years ago. Bryan married Miss Evie Hall, a most charming lady, one of the county's most important and historic families. Their children make the 5th generation of the Baker family to live at the old homestead, and they are exceptional children. Mr. Rushton has several fine children living away from here.

LET'S GO

Now that vacation days are over and the mind of the people is turned toward the busy days of fall and winter in all lines of industry why not let some of the zeal and enthusiasm be found in the channels of the Church? It's harvest time, public schools will open on schedule time, various club activities will begin, and new life will be seen and felt in all directions.

For the most part it will be church people who will show this new zeal and enthusiasm in the various lines of endeavor. Is it too much to ask that these same church people will show at least as much zeal and enthusiasm for the Church. The doctors are authorizing the city schools to open on schedule, the picture show is running daily with good attendance, the horse shows are drawing good crowds, and there are other kinds of group meetings. If the Infantile Paralysis situation will permit these to operate why should there be danger in going to Church? Let's guard against SPIRITUAL PARALYSIS as well as any other kind.

We begin our full program with next Sunday, the first Sunday in September. Sunday school at 9:30; preaching at 11; Young Peoples meeting at 6:45; and the evening service at 7:45. The mid-week service will begin the 8th and will be at 7:45. The busy season is here. It's harvest time in the church. The hour for action has struck. Let's go.

C. A. PARKS,
Pastor Methodist Church.

LOVELINESS

at State Fair October 11-14

Just a tiny little bundle of loveliness, but what a wonderful show she gives us with Faynell's "Chez Paree," tent theater attraction on this year's Royal American Midway at the State Fair in Jackson. She is Ginger Ray, famous baby dancing star, and has been featured on Broadway and in the movies.

Mr. Wm. Dubard Visits Tupelo

(By J. K. Morrison)

Mr. Wm. Dubard made a visit to Tupelo the past week. He went over with his daughter, Mrs. Hinds. He was surprised to see that Tupelo had risen from the wreck that the cyclone made of the city and today is a prettier city than it was before the cyclone struck. Mr. Dubard is always delighted to mingle with some of the oldsters who live at Tupelo, men he has known for a number of years. His friend, Judge W. D. Anderson of the Supreme Court was not there. He missed him.

He did see Judge Sam Long, a fine, rugged citizen, who has been a great force in that community. He failed to see S. J. High, who has passed through some stormy days, but is now sailing in smooth waters. The fact that Mr. Dubard loves his fellowman and takes great pleasure in mingling among folks are what helps to keep him the youngest 89 year old man of our acquaintance.

No man in Grenada was closer to Mr. Otis Lawrence as he called him, than Mr. Dubard. There was a strong link that bound them in mutual friendship. Mr. Dubard has told the writer more than once that Mr. Lawrence was one of the most versatile men he has ever known and a friend that he enjoyed more than any other.

We often wonder if a man who reaches the ripe age of 89 is not lonely. How can he help from looking back when those that were closest to him have passed over the river? Each loss leaves a scar.

We are glad that Mr. Dubard had his visit to Tupelo. He has a good picture of Tupelo today. He made the visit short, to those growing old the accustomed haunt is more satisfying.

Greenwood Band Festival Monday

The citizens of Grenada are urged not to forget that the Grenada High School Band retains 90c out of each $1.00 ticket sold for the Band Festival to be held at Greenwood, Monday, September 6, Labor Day.

Greenwood, as usual, has prepared a good program for that day. It is both interesting and educational. However, the beauty contest interests us most. We published the complete program last week with the exception of the entrants from Grenada in the beauty contest. Here they are:

Miss Clair Weir, Miss Elizabeth Baker, Miss Peggy Spain, Miss Catherine Jones, Miss Helen Horton, Miss Martha Hoffa, Miss Mary Douglas, Miss Alice Giffes, Miss Marguerite Finley.

GO TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

(By J. K. Morrison)

Our ministers have been taking vacations. They are back home and we will have preaching in all of the churches.

The Rector of the Episcopal Church, Rev. C. S. Liles, went to Florida for his rest. He imitated President Roosevelt and went deep sea fishing. However we learn that he is not as good a salt as the President for he suffered from sea sickness. We do not know whether he harpooned a tarpon or caught a whale.

Rev. C. A. Parks spent his vacation preaching every day, for he held a meeting at Indianola. The only change he had was from two sermons on Sunday to two every day.

Rev. C. A. Pharr went to the Mississippi Coast. We do not know what his fishing luck was but we did hear him say that he worshipped with the Methodists one Sunday and that was a change. He was with the Presbyterians at Gulfport one Sunday and he states that is a church of the friendly hand and a pleasant smile of welcome.

Rev. E. R. Henderson has as his guest Rev. Measels, who is holding a protracted meeting. He is preaching fine sermons and having good congregations. You are welcome at Central Baptist Church to worship with them at these services. A group, members of the Christian Church meet each Sunday at the Mayor's office. They have Sunday school and worship together without a minister. These groups will welcome you.

Rev. J. L. Dodds, of Jonesboro, La., preached at the First Baptist Church last Sunday. The Baptists are without a preacher at present. This condition will not exist long. They have the Sunday school still at work. You will be welcome at Sunday school there next Sunday.

I was raised in a small town. Nothing is more vivid to me than the memory of the church bells each Sunday morning calling people to worship. The Presbyterian Church burned. Mr. Francis Heron gave a bell to the church. It has a rich, deep, mellow tone. I like to hear it when it is ringing folks to services. When the echoes of the bell tolling when calling people to pay respect to the dead come to memory that is sad.

I taught for a number of years in a military school. Each night the buglers would sound taps that called for lights out and to sleep for the boys. Tolling bells and taps are associated with life at its end. The call on Sunday morning is to services that teach that death is not the end. At the sound of the church bell on Sunday morning I have the urge cultivated in boyhood, to go to Sunday school and church. We hope that the readers have that urge, it wears out a way from church on Sunday morning. Sunday is like starting a new year, you will be welcome at any church of the city.

You may be one of the kind that give an excuse that you do not go to church because there are hypocrites in the churches. We grant you that but you will find more of them on the outside than on the inside of the churches. The church is the one agency that teaches a great code of living the ten commandments. The commandments form the basis of American civilization.

The churches do not make all men and women perfect, but they offer the only hope for a reconstructed world. They point the right way and it is up to the individual to choose. Most of the familiar faces will be there, the preachers will be glad to see them and would be disappointed if they were not. The thing that would delight their hearts is for many who have quit going to church, who have lost that early urge to come back and renew their association with the church.

You may say to yourself, Oh, I can hear a better sermon on the radio. You may hear a more distinguished preacher. The preacher may be ever so eloquent but you miss the personal touch. You miss the association with those who have a common purpose and who do their part to help make the world a better place.

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPT. 6TH AS SCHEDULED

Grenadians Visit Charleston Rotary Club August 25th

Plans Discussed For Building
a 4-H Camp At Lake
Tatum.

(By L. H. Stubblefield)

On August 25, a group of Extension Agents, Rotarians and business men were guests of the Charleston Rotary Club where they discussed plans for building a 4-H camp at Lake Tatum, four miles east of Charleston on Highway No. 32. This camp would serve the recreational needs of the 4-H girls and boys and other organized responsible groups of North Mississippi.

A committee was appointed to draft plans for the proposed camp. The buildings are to be located in the wooded hills surrounding the twelve acre lake which is supplied with water by several large springs, making it especially attractive for swimming. South of the lake is open level land which can be used for tennis, volleyball, basketball and other forms of recreation.

The following attended the meeting at Tatum Lake: Col. J. A. Blount, Judge J. M. Kuykendall, Charles Harrelson, of Charleston, Rev. Robinson, of Hernando, County Agents, I. W. Carson and J. L. Cooley, Jr., Assistant County Agents Paul Brown, W. R. Meredith, W. B. Parker and L. H. Stubblefield.

MULE SHOW

(By J. K. Morrison)

We believe that the movement that has started to increase mules on our farms should be given a push along.

Rural Resettlement loaned money to place four jacks in the county. Over 300 mares have been bred. The Grenada Bank loaned money to buy brood mares.

We believe that Grenada county could put on a creditable showing, and too, some of our neighbors might be invited to bring along their mules and mares to show.

Why not make a call for a dollar, no more, no less. Let the merchants that so desire give a dollar article, let others who wish to cooperate give a dollar cash. Put on a dollar day sale, and let every merchant in the city participate. The grocerymen could put on a dollar sale of several items to be included for one dollar. Merchants could list a number of articles that could be had for a dollar.

It may be that we would be forced to have the mule show at the Fair Grounds. Stalls were built for the horse show and there are possibly enough to accommodate a stock that would be brought in. A good lesson might be put on to show the influence of the calves from sires. Let a few farmers bring in some grade cows with calves from pure bred bulls to show what a good sire does for the off springs in one generation. We need some pure bred beef bulls placed in communities along the same line that the jacks have been purchased.

It is difficult to give up the idea of a mule show to encourage farmers in the raising of more mules. It would be mighty little trouble to handle the show. It is some trouble to bring the stock to the city, but think back for a few years. There was a time when you had to ride a horse or mule or have them pull you in a wagon. We believe that sufficient farmers would be interested to make a fine showing. Such a show as held in Lexington recently. The papers state that over 2,000 people attended.

Bishop Bratton To Open Mission Sunday

Bishop Theodore D. Bratton will open a Mission Sunday, September 5th at All Saints' Episcopal Church, at 11 o'clock. The Mission will last a week.

For the past two weeks there has been a great deal of uncertainty relative to the opening of the schools on the date set. So far there has been no report of any case of infantile paralysis in the rural districts, with the exception of those close to the city of Grenada. The children of those districts attend the Grenada City Schools. There has, however, been a report of one case in the Mitchell school district, but the county health officer has not ordered any delay in the opening of that school.

In view of these facts, the rural schools will open on September 6, as scheduled; unless the trustees of the various schools request that the date be postponed. If the trustees of any school wish to delay the opening, they have the privilege of exercising that right. I am not, however, recommending any delay. If any board of trustees wish to change the date of opening their school, please notify me immediately.

All teachers are hereby authorized to report for duty on September 6, unless notified to the contrary before that date.

O. D. SPATLEIN,
Supt. of Education.

Stresses the Value of Teaching Health In Public Schools

Texts Begin in The Third Grade With The "Voyage of Growing."

On the eve of a new school year, J. M. Bryant, assistant superintendent of education, stresses the value of teaching health in the public schools of Mississippi.

"The department of education is cooperating 100 per cent with the board of health to put over a program in the schools which will bring about better health conditions in every community of the state," Mr. Bryant said.

The aim of the school health program is to institute for every child a personal health program. Carefully selected health textbooks are used and health teaching is tied in with many subjects to which it is closely related. Texts begin in the third grade with the "Voyage of Growing," branching out gradually to the wider vision of "Community Health," in the seventh grade.

Provisions are made and suggestions given for building units of health study around health projects in operation where children can study them at first hand. Some fine units have been worked out by delta schools on malarial control and sanitation in tenant homes. In high school home economics classes, training is given in proper food planning and preparation, cleanliness, and ventilation, as well as the care of infants and invalids.

It is important that parents understand the nature of the health education program in the schools in order that they may realize that the school does not seek to supplant the home in health training but to cooperate with it. Children who receive ideal health training

Mrs. Charles Buford, 72, one time Grenada resident, died in Memphis last Sunday, August 29. Her remains were brought to Grenada Monday and laid to rest in Odd Fellows' Cemetery with Rev. C. A. Pharr conducting the services.

Mrs. Buford's maiden name was Miss Willie Young. At one time she and Miss Grace Cowles, (now Mrs. N. G. Fearall, of Dallas, Texas) operated a millinery store in the Revell building on Main Street. Later on she worked for a while for Mr. B. C. Duncan.

It was while she was living in Grenada that she married Charles Buford, a widower, 71, Collier, of Memphis. Burial was made at the Odd Fellows' Cemetery. W. B. Gove, B. C. Adams

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

There is more people around tryin' to fix things than you can shake a stick at, and most of 'em they don't know anything about what it is that they are gonna fix, but they say it would be great stuff to fix it. And they are smarter than they look, or we think, 'cause they make a livin' at it, and somebody else they pay the dues.

And if something they are fixin' don't work, we don't read anything more about it. And some of the persons who was gonna fix it, nobody knows where they are, and the others they just start some new speech.

And if you all look back a month or two, you can maybe remember when somebody was in a great sweat and gettin' ready to do something big and grand for you —but it didn't work out so hot, anyway not for you. And all the catchy slogans, they are turnin' out to be just another I O U. Yours, with the low down, JO SERRA.

Children In Court

(By Judge Malcolm Hatfield)

Five boys stood in court yesterday afternoon and confessed that they had stolen several hundred dollars worth of brass from the city and various manufacturing plants. Two electric traffic signal lights valued at eighty dollars were destroyed so that a few pounds of brass could be secured. During the course of the trial it was learned that the brass had been sold to several junk dealers. When the boys were confronted by the junk dealers they readily admitted that they would not have stolen the traffic lights if it had not been possible to dispose of the brass they contained.

The parents of the boys, together with the city official and representatives of the manufacturing firms immediately joined forces in asking the prosecuting attorney to bring suit against the junk dealers.

Fake Eye Specialist Racket

"How did the victim fall prey to these racketeers?" An answer to this question is found in the official files of the Department bearing on the operations of this most inhuman racket.

In the first place, these swindlers seek out elderly people who live alone and in remote places. They know that elderly people have defects in their sight; that many of them have great fear of going blind; and that they will do everything possible to retain their vision. Then their scheme is cleverly devised, and the parts played by each practiced until perfection is attained. They are so adept at the game that they actually compel confidence.

First there are eye glass peddlers who go about the country posing as optometrists, pretending to examine the eyes free of charge, and selling glasses of a cheap type and often of no benefit to the purchaser. They are usually without license to operate and are not competent to examine the eyes or to fit glasses. Their main profit comes from furnishing the names and addresses of their victims to other ers more advanced in the racket, who pay them twenty-five per cent of any additional funds flashed from them.

These eye glass salesmen are followed by two others. One of the latter enters the victim's premises first and represents himself to be connected with some optical company, informing the victim that he had recently purchased glasses from their agents; that the glasses were guaranteed; and that he had come to check up on them free of charge.

This man pretends to examine the victim's eyes and glasses, and falsely claims that there is a condition of the victim's eyes which he does not understand. He tells the victim that he has with him in his car on the outside a doctor from some renowned institution who would make an examination free of charge. The man is called in from the car, and he too pretends to examine the eyes of the victim and falsely represents that he finds a cataract or a cancerous growth on one of the eyes. Finally the victim is led to believe that this man is a great doctor and expert in the examination and treatment of the eye, and he submits to the pretended operation, which it is alleged can be done painlessly with radium, and that the only expense will be the cost of the radium used.

The alleged expert produces a small vial containing an ordinary eye wash, but alleged to be radium water, and this liquid is placed in the victim's eye, a few drops at a time, the alleged expert examining the vial after each application and announcing the value of the radium used after each application of the eye wash was to ascertain what the victim could pay.

In cases where the swindlers believe additional funds can be obtained two additional members of the racket are sent to call on the victim, and these in turn pay those who preceded them twenty-five per cent of what they get. These make the victim believe that the great doctor who performed the operation had been killed and before his death asked that they call and find out if the operation was a success, and if not to refund the money which had been paid. One of these is alleged to be a lawyer, Judge Jones, claimed to be the administrator of the estate of the great doctor who performed the operation, and the other a doctor from some renowned institution and a close friend of the first great doctor. These cause the victim to believe that the operation was not a success, and obtain deposits in large sums from the victim for an alleged radium belt which, it is represented, will cure the condition of the blood by giving off radium rays.

Since the inspectors started the investigation of the "Fake Eye Specialist Racket" there have been forty arrests and thirty-five convictions. Sentences imposed total one hundred and seventy-five years and nine months, and fines $9,975.00.

One, an eye glass peddler, committed suicide in jail, hanging himself with his belt. One of the most active of the fake eye specialists attempted suicide in the jail by leaping from the third floor stair landing. He was severely injured, it having been necessary to amputate one of his legs.

One of the most inhuman cases brought to attention was perpetrated in the State of Massachusetts on an invalid girl, a living skeleton, who was born blind. Two of the racketeers made her father believe that her vision was obstructed with malignant growths over the iris, and that by removing the growths, which they claimed to be able to do with liquid radium, she would be able to see within several days. They pretended to perform the operation, and demanded two thousand dollars, five hundred dollars of the father, but he had only five hundred dollars, and they took that.

The two swindlers who victimized the aged father of the girl are in custody. One of them was loaned by the government to a state, where he received a sentence of five years. He is yet to be tried on a Federal charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with a fake eye specialist swindle. The other swindler was he who attempted suicide shortly after his arrest, and he is now a miserable invalid, biding his time in jail awaiting trial.

Five people were involved in the first case which came to the attention of the inspectors, four fake eye specialists and a fence who collected for them through the mails a two thousand, five hundred dollar check which was obtained from the victim. All of these have been arrested. Four have received substantial sentences, and one is in jail awaiting trial.

The investigations by inspectors disclosed two cases which were even more horrible than that involving the blind invalid girl. In those cases the aged victims paid the swindlers in cash at their homes, and the swindlers subsequently returned at night with sawed off shot guns and other weapons; tied the victim's hands and feet with wire on the floor, and ransacked the premises. In one of these cases, where they failed to find a large amount of money, they threatened to burn the house if the location of the money be not disclosed, and in that way forced the victim to disclose the location of a large number of Liberty Bonds, which were stolen, one of the bonds in the sum of five hundred dollars not having been registered.

Amongst those arrested were a husband and wife, the former having operated as an optometrist and the wife as his nurse. The husband had been in the racket about fourteen and one-half years and had served one sentence of three years. The wife was in the racket with him about eight and one-half years. They are now in jail awaiting trial in the Federal Court.

These fake eye specialists, prior to the post office inspectors' campaign against them, lived luxuriously, patronizing the best hotels.

A number of them had their families at a popular resort on the Atlantic Coast the summer of 1936. It was a sort of convention. One with his wife and three children, drove to the resort in a new high priced automobile and occupied an expensive apartment. His wife afterwards told another woman in the racket that her elder son said they were doubtlessly the richest family at the resort as they were making the biggest show. It so happened that the wife, who knew all about the racket her husband was in, was with him in a hotel room when he was taken into custody, and her tears were copious, though she had no feeling for his poor aged victims.

It is difficult to picture the plight of many of the victims. Usually they have toiled hard and long to amass something for their declining years, and it is a terrible shock to them when they realized that all had been taken from them for naught. In one case an aged victim lost her mind, and it became necessary for the State to place her in an insane asylum.

But today the picture of the fake eye specialists and their families is far different from what it was a year or two ago. Their racket has been practically wiped out, and many of them are in jails or penitentiaries. They did not expect such to happen and they were not prepared. What little money they put away was spent in unsuccessful efforts to ward off the punishment which they so thoroughly deserved, and their wives and children, who formerly had even "thing they desired, are in want.

What are these men going to do when released from prison? When arrested practically all have said they were glad they had reached the end; that they despised the racket, but could not find anything else to do. However, none have made every effort they could to evade apprehension.

Doubtlessly some of them will go back in the eye specialist or some other racket. They have had no training in honest labor, and their incomes have been that of men of the higher positions of life with scientific training and ability, while the fake eye specialists are usually ignorant and they have only developed a certain quality of shrewdness and cunning of value in the practice of deception. But they can rest assured that the path of the fake eye specialist which existed a short time back now leads but to the jail, for the public has been warned against them by the press of the United States.

American Boy Introduces A New Football Game

In the early fall issues of THE AMERICAN BOY there'll be presented the story of a new game—six-man football—fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey!

The game came to life through the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football, which was too expensive. Stephen Epler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need. In six-man football anybody can score, the possibility of injury from mass plays is minimized, and the game is open enough for spectators to follow every exciting development.

The new game is a hit. New schools are taking it up every day. In coming issues THE AMERICAN BOY tells the world about this practical new game. In addition, it presents The American Boy Official Handbook, which can be obtained from the magazine at 20 cents a copy, or 15 cents when bought in bulk.

NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7480 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15c a copy.

ROSY MORN PETUNIAS

(By Mrs. Starke Willis)
Fascinating ladies in pink party frocks, I'm enamoured of your grace, and varying shades of rose, The lightest breeze is music for your dainty dancing feet, And at each sigh, you bend a charming pose.

Humming birds and butterflies, your adoring courtiers are; As imploringly they steal kisses from your lips, No chemist puts such perfume on the treasure hunting mart, As dame nature spills upon your petal tips.

A genius helped the fairies give you name, For each morn is rose upon which you chance to smile; An envied fate 'twould be to have you fringe my path, As we step the prosy metres, mile on mile.

Cotton Situation

(By J. K. Morrison)

The cotton report was a damper on our outlook for a prosperous year. Maybe next time it will be greatly reduced. It will, if conditions that prevail around Grenada are general.

Much cotton has died from wilt and rust. If this condition is local and not general, it will not help a bit. The local showers are not helping.

Times have changed. In the olden days a bumper crop meant prosperity, not so today, it may mean disaster. Some times a pest or weather conditions, that are distributed alike and reduce the crop, are blessings in disguise.

Maybe the normal granary plan will cure the condition. We have made two very bold experiments, one of them has helped temporarily but the patient is about to relapse. One good thing, we have done a lot of diversifying and the rosy tint to the cloud is that we will have much hay to store in the barns, plenty of sorghum and an unusual crop of peas. That means we can produce a crop cheaper next season than this season.

Many think that the cotton should be pegged at 10 cents, we do not see it that way. It is certainly bad business practice to loan more money on a crop than the market price. It throws all of the risk on the government and places no responsibility on the grower. We hope that if the plan is tried out, loaning less than the market price, that the statements of the Secretary of Agriculture will prove true, and that is that cotton will move more rapidly into the foreign trade. We were mightily pepped up before the cotton report came out and many permitted the report to lower morale.

The picture is not altogether dark but the cloud has a silver lining, look for the lining and forget the cloud.

Here are some of the conditions that the cotton growers face: As we reduce our volume other nations increase theirs. Brazil burned over 4,000,000 pounds of cotton. It did not solve their problem. We note that they have raised a half million dollars to increase the consumption of coffee in this country. They want folks to use more iced coffee and that goes into competition with tea. The advertisers say iced coffee is too weak, putting the ice into the coffee weakens it. They say freeze coffee ice cubes to put into the coffee.

Brazil tried turning away from a one-sided agriculture, growing too much coffee. They began raising cotton at the appearance of the boll weevil in this country. They have been constantly increasing the acreage as we have withdrawn from the world market.

Germany does not have the money to buy our cotton so they are using substitutes. They have made great progress in producing rayon from wood.

Great Britain has been encouraging the growing of cotton in India and they have been put into competition with us for the British cotton trade. Pegging cotton above world prices has been disastrous and yet a good many folks want the money right now and let the future take care of itself.

Cotton control can go too far. It is possible to put us out of world competition by raising cotton alone for home consumption. What we need is reciprocal trade agreements to take products from other countries that we may sell our cotton.

Cotton reduction carried to extreme can bring ruin. Nature and crop control caused us last year to import more than we exported. That condition is ruinous.

Colored Column

Miss Vera Lee Sledge, the colored home demonstration agent of Grenada county, held her annual camp meeting at the Hendersonville school, which brought together a large group of club women for one week of work and play. This meeting was largely attended by both members and friends from this and surrounding counties. Among the friends was a number of white people, who made a contribution of great worth to the attendants.

Thirty or more of the club women stayed on the grounds both day and night. There was a host of visitors from Grenada, and other towns among whom were Mrs. Dr. O'Neal, the wife of Dr. W. M. O'Neal, Mrs. H. H. Williams and Rev. H. H. Williams, pastor of Vincent Chapel A. M. E. church, Mrs. O'Neal and Rev. Williams made some very interesting talks and Mrs. Williams led the campers in their play.

The work engaged in by the women was that of handicraft and art, all of which was orderly displayed by the agent, Miss Sledge and judged by Mrs. Williams, with a deal of the club women receiving honorable mention. Much praise is due the Hendersonville community, whose cooperation with the county agent made the 1937 camping tour of the colored club women of Grenada county a success. G. H.

Beware of easy ways to progress. During your lifetime you will see many false prophets, hear many offers of something-for-nothing. Maybe somewhere there is an undiscovered path to quick success. But whenever any such a way is offered to you, ask yourself one simple question: "Whom will it harm?"

Remember that your security and your progress often depends on how well others succeed.

Through those long years behind us it was invariably the man who tried to profit by harming others who found himself losing what he had hoped to gain.—Contributed.

CONSTITUTION DAY THIS YEAR

It is both a paradox and a tribute that in this the 150th year since the signing of the Constitution, it should be undergoing its most severe test. A paradox because while an officially created government sesquicentennial commission seeks to rekindle a devotion to the Constitution, others seek to prostitute it to their own grasping for power. A tribute because it has stood for 150 years in defiance of all attacks.

One of the most common and insidious attacks has been that the Constitution is being used by a minority of the people to defeat the will of the majority. As a political plea for votes this is clever, for it is a direct appeal to the majority. But, as a matter of fact, protection for the minority is and has been the heart and soul of the Constitution.

Those who wrote the great document had history behind them. And they knew that majorities could always take care of themselves. Because they were the most numerous. The Constitution was intended to prevent this majority from riding roughshod over their weaker brethren. The Bill of Rights was added to strengthen this protection. The Constitutional Amendment was provided to permit the will of the many to prevail.

Thus, so long as the Constitution stands, there can never be persecution of any religious group or other minority, by the majority. The minority can speak its mind publicly without fear of arrest and imprisonment. Property can not be taken from the humblest or the richest citizens.

September 17 this year will mark the anniversary of something more than just another historic occasion.

UNWANTED VISITORS

Mississippi is famous for hospitality but visitors, especially from the North and East, at present find themselves viewed with suspicion and quickly asked their business in some sections of the state.

If a man loiters an hour or two in a Delta town, or stops his car near a tenant cabin on one of the plantations, somebody is sure to walk up and ask gruffly, "What's your business here?"

Sometimes it is a planter. Sometimes it is an officer. But an answer is demanded.

We had that question growled at us a half-dozen times up in Humphreys county last week. Our business there happened to be getting data on a murder case. And, once we identified ourselves, we met the usual Delta courtesy.

Labor agents and tenant organizers! These are the gentry for whom the Delta is alert. Labor agents seek to lure farm hands to other sections, just before the Delta begins picking another bumper cotton crop.

If we were a life insurance company official we would class that as "hazardous occupation."

We would put C. I. O. organization work in the same classification, so far as Mississippi is concerned.

Other Mississippi communities and sections are as alert for these as the Delta is for labor agents, especially the industrial towns.

Two white men who acted suspiciously down in Laurel Monday night were "thought to be C. I. O. organizers." They hadn't got to sleep before a so-called "mob" of about 30 unmasked citizens called on them, put them in an automobile, carried them to the railroad station, and saw them off on an outbound train.

Mississippi welcomes visitors, tourists, workers and industries, but Mississippi is a healthy place for labor agents and C. I. O. organizers to avoid.

Hitch-hikers, railroad tramps and other vagrants likewise will be discreet in detouring around Mississippi during the coming three months, unless they are willing to work. They may meet jobs they can't dodge, with the choice of picking cotton for pay or working on the chain gang without pay.

County and local officials in several sections have begun strict enforcement of the vagrancy laws.

Why not? We have enough native loafers around our towns without feeding the drifters, and application of the vagrancy law to these also would be a good thing.—Brandon News.

World's Fattest Girl at State Fair Oct. 11-16

When Baby Ruth, 750 pound fat girl, of the Royal American Shows whose attractions are booked for the State Fair, gets down, it is a mob-sized job to get her up again. You will see her in an unusual manner during the Royal American Shows visit at the State Fair in Jackson this season.

SPECTACULAR ATTRACTIONS TO PLEASE STATE FAIR PATRONS

Sensational Races, Complete Midway Show, Two Football Games, Daily Parades On Program

Spectacular and glamorous attractions, brought to Jackson from all over the country, promises to make the 34th annual Mississippi State Fair, to be held in Jackson October 11-16, one of the most attractive programs of amusement and general entertainment ever presented in Mississippi.

In addition to the usual series of events, including two football games, sensational auto races and night fireworks displays, there will be spine-tickling thrills and spills by "Flash" Williams' "Thrill Drivers", together with unusual midway attractions which include freaks, swordswallowers, and strange, exotic creatures from the land of make believe. There will also be a daily parade down Capitol street, fair officials announce.

Perhaps the outstanding entertainment feature of the entire Fair program will be the "Cavalcade of Hits", Ernie Young's musical review, which will be presented each night in front of the grandstand. Young's performers have been featured at the Fair for a number of years, and he promises that the "Cavalcade of Hits" will be even better than his previous offerings.

Besides internationally known singers and dancers, the cast includes a company of talented performers chosen especially for the ballet and chorus from Hollywood and New York studios. The musical score of the show was prepared by a well-known composer who has written numerous catchy popular songs, and the ensembles will be led by a nationally known prima donna, Ione O'Donnell, who will also sing the solos. There will be clever comedians to diversify the entertainment.

The cast, elaborate costuming, electrical lighting effects, and expert staging combine to make the "Cavalcade of Hits" one of the most pretentious and artistic outdoor entertainments produced in America.

The Fair management has also announced that the sideshow attractions at this year's Fair will be operated by Royal American Shows, which has been described as the world's largest midway. As a result, it is predicted that Mississippians will be entertained by the greatest collection of human oddities, amusement devices, and animal stunts ever gathered together at the State Fair.

For those of the public interested in death-defying stunts, the management announces that it has secured the services of "Flash" Williams and his famous troupe of moving picture stunt men who have previously performed this year at Soldiers' Field, Chicago, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and the Michigan State Fair, as well as in other metropolitan centers. Among the breath-taking stunts undertaken by this troupe is that of driving a speeding auto through the burning walls of a house saturated with gasoline.

Likewise, the Williams "Dare-devils" are adept at performing many other sensational feats with motorcycles and automobiles.

All in all, according to the management, the entertainment program for the Mississippi Free State Fair of 1937 promises to be the most successful in the 34 years of its history.

MISSISSIPPI TO PRESENT FREE STATE FAIR OCTOBER 11 - 16

Giant New Industrial Building Named For Governor White To Be Formally Opened October 11

Featuring a parade a day and addresses by national celebrities, the most comprehensive program ever conceived for a Mississippi exposition, is announced for the 1937 Mississippi Free State Fair to be held in Jackson October 11-16.

Its huge plant expanded to include a giant new industrial building, to be named in honor of Governor Hugh White, the Jackson exposition will be formally opened at noon, Monday, October 11, with a mile-long "industrial parade", including more than a score of bands and floats from half a hundred industrially-minded towns and cities throughout the commonwealth.

Mississippi legislators, upward of 500, including Mississippi editors, will be honor guests of the day, designated "Industry Day" in honor of the state's growing importance as a manufacturing center. Monday will also be known as "Pat Harrison" day in honor of Mississippi's senior senator who will be tendered a testimonial banquet in the new Assembly Hall now under construction.

Others scheduled to address opening day throngs, estimated at more than 50,000 will be President L. A. Downs of the Illinois Central System and President I. B. Tigrett, of the G. M. & N. Railroad.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace and Henry Ford have been invited to speak and be honor guests on Tuesday, October 12, set aside as Agriculture Day with farm folk from every county expected for a full program of events including a morning parade, an agricultural workers luncheon and a banquet.

Tuesday will also be Dairy Day, Livestock Associations Day, 4-H Club Day, Future Farmers of America Day and CCC Day. Wednesday, "King Cotton Day", will see Mississippi's famous "Delta on Parade" in another monster parade. Postmaster General Jim Farley has been invited to be honor guest for the day which will also be called "Democratic Day" in his honor.

General John J. Pershing, Governor Gordon Browning of Tennessee, and Senator Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi, have been invited to be joint honor guests of state and city on Thursday, "Recreation-Health-Historic" Day. Historic Vicksburg and Natchez and the carefree Mississippi Gulf Coast will present a unique parade featuring the resources of their respective sections.

Friday, always a State Fair record breaker, is again "Education Day" with Harry Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, as guest of honor. One hundred thousand are expected for a parade and other special events honoring Mr. Hopkins. A highlight of the day will be a "Camp-o-Res" in which 3000 Mississippi Boy Scouts will participate.

The exposition will reach its climax Saturday in "Veterans and Fraternal" Day honoring soldiers of all wars, the various Masonic and other bodies. Secretary of War Woodring is expected to be present to review Mississippi's crack National Guardsmen and other military units. Mississippi State Fair officials are fast completing all plans and details for the biggest exposition ever outlined and according to present indications the attendance will surpass that of any previous year.

The State of Mississippi drew lots on Monday for 615 highway notes for $1,000 each, which the state proposes to call for payment on October 1, 1937, out of the surplus derived from the gasoline tax collections. By retiring these $165,000 worth of notes on October 1st instead of allowing them to mature, the State of Mississippi will save $396,288.75 in interest that would accrue if these notes were allowed to run until their maturity dates.

The Highway Note commission is making ready to issue four million dollars of highway notes on September 10th. If this issue is sold, then there will be a balance of only a little more than four million dollars worth of the original $23,000,000 originally authorized amount will remain unsold. It is stated that the note commission plans to issue the remainder of the entire authorized issue prior to January 1, 1938.

For many years it has been a custom of banks to pay the State a small interest rate on the average daily balances of deposits made with them. Without going into the intricacies of a new law, it appears that on August 23, 1935, the Federal Reserve Act of Congress was amended so as to provide for the insurance of bank deposits known as the FDIC, or Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and among other things this Act provided that after the expiration of two years, or after August 23rd, 1937, no interest on daily deposits should be paid.

Accordingly, state banks who comply with the deposit guaranty laws of the FDIC, cannot afford to maintain membership in the Federal Deposit Guaranty Corporation and at the same time violate the provisions of the law. And so, the result, no further interest will be computed on daily balances of state deposits after August 23rd. This, however, does not amount to a great deal, and it is generally accepted that the guaranty of the safety of deposits means more to the people of Mississippi than the small amount of interest that would be thus realized on daily balances for the state.

In the third report of the Land Investigating Committee, a proposed legislative bill is recommended, which proposes to abolish the office of Land Commissioner and create the position of Secretary of Public Lands, appointive by the Governor, and to provide for employees of the office. It also makes other provisions governing the sale of tax forfeited lands, and numerous provisions relative to the affairs of the office, chief among which is to place the sale of state-owned lands in the hands of the 82 counties of the state, instead of at Jackson.

State Auditor Carl Craig, who is having an audit of the Land Commissioner's office made, states that this audit will be completed soon, after which it is expected that the investigating committee will adjourn its deliberations.

The National Geographic Magazine, published in Washington, D. C., by the National Geographic Society, for the month of September, contained 56 pages of pictures and reading matter advertising Mississippi in a big way. Both the pictures and the text of the article are very fine and highly descriptive of the advancement made by the Magnolia State, and which advancement is still being made. This article, with all of the descriptive half-tones were prepared by staff members of the magazine, who traveled over this state with Director Ed Lipscomb of the Mississippi Advertising Commission.

It should be of appreciative interest to all citizens of Mississippi that not only this 56 pages of the best advertising in the world, and which would have cost at advertising rates more than twice the amount appropriated for the prosecution of Mississippi's advertising campaign, did not cost the State one cent, and in addition, the National Geographic Magazine

Washington, D. C.—Or the "deserted village" although a lone congressman was seen on Pennsylvania Avenue and there are still a few correspondents trying to make sense of what has been happening here in the 229 days since our Seventy-Fifth aggregation of lawmakers met on January fifth. They passed some laws, it is discovered; the Wagner Housing Act, for instance, but it was so distorted by sectional wrangling that the senator may not recognize it. A million and a half dollar work relief bill got through and so did the feeble ghost of a measure to aid tenant farmers. The Supreme Court retirement act permitted the appointment of Senator Black. Some tax-dodgers' devices were stopped but tax-exempt securities were carefully overlooked.

The President read a parting salvo telling what he thought and congress has gone home to find out what the people think and meanwhile the columnists and radio commentators are telling everybody what they ought to think. Washington is getting a quiet chuckle over the change of a face of a number of them who were fervent supporters of the New Deal last fall but who began to think it was all a mistake in the spring—chiefly it is murmured because they all expected appointments but where there would have been room for them except on the WPA writers' project nobody knows.

With the battle of Washington over for the moment the foreign squabbles are bringing the neutrality question to the front. The observers of far eastern affairs do not hesitate to say that if we won't sell shells to China now we will be firing them out of our guns sooner than we think. It seems to be the consensus that once Japan has at her command all the vast natural resources of China, the Pacific might well be named the Yellow Sea and the days of foreign concessions in places like Shanghai and Hongkong will be numbered.

The European landscape is still shimmering in the war heat especially since "pirate" submarines and planes have taken to annoying French and British shipping in the Mediterranean. But Portugal's break with Czechoslovakia because the Czechs wouldn't sell them munitions is purely a newspaper scare because the munitions, the story goes, were meant for the Spanish rebels.

Gazing out at the now peaceful Potomac this correspondent thinks the palm for "viewing with alarm" goes to the elderly and conservative senator who, hearing in the closing days of the session of the appointment of the wife of the Governor of Alabama to the Senate, scurried around giving thanks that the Supreme Court vacancy had been filled before the idea of appointing wives had had a chance to seep through the White House doors.

sent staff members here to take the photographs and compile the information without cost to the State, which was indeed generous of them.

Members of the State Budget Commission, comprising Chairman Alf Stone, chairman of the tax commission and assistant director of the Budget Commission, Hon. Buford Yeager, secretary, and Mr. Leigh Watkins, statistician for the Commission, visited the Governor's summer capitol at Biloxi, where they conferred with the Governor, who is ex-officio director of the Budget Commission, concerning the 1938-1940 budget. Messrs. Yeager and Watkins had recently completed a tour of investigation of the different state institutions, talked with their respective executives and ascertained their needs, and these findings were gone over by the Commission.

Miss Pearl Sneed, secretary of the State Library Commission is launching plans for a six point program of improvement of the State's library facilities, and has compiled a comprehensive survey of Mississippi's present status of libraries in the state. Miss Sneed reports the existence of only 35 libraries in the state, and feels that the State should make ample provision for the further extension of this work of establishing and improving the libraries, and expects to present the matter very forcibly before the state legislature at the 1938 session.

THE GRENADA GROCERY CO.

The Grenada Grocery Company was one of the first wholesale concerns organized in north central Mississippi. In 1907 W. D. Salmon, J. B. Perry, W. M. Cook, J. T. Thomas and other progressive and farsighted business men saw the trend of the grocery business was to become more localized and organized this progressive company.

Since the date of its organization, it has steadily grown. It has always been farsighted enough to know that its mission was to serve the communities in its territories—and to distribute high quality food from the manufacturer to the consumer at the least possible cost. Having kept this in mind through the years, the company has grown from a modest beginning to where it now is, so it is said, distributes more fresh fruits and vegetables and dry groceries than any other one grocery house between Memphis and Jackson.

This company has only had three or four managers during these 30 years—namely: W. M. Cook, Chester Brown, C. H. Calhoun and J. H. Oliver.

J. H. Oliver is the present manager. The company serves 16 counties with a population of 388,356. It is one of the largest receivers of freight on the Illinois Central Railroad between Jackson and Memphis. It employs more than fifty people, with an average pay roll of approximately $9,000.00 per month.

This company feels that it has even a greater mission than just the sale of groceries. It is the purpose of this company at all times to help to carry the responsibilities of the communities served by it.

This company employs fine young ladies and gentlemen and has always the interest of these employees at heart.

During the present management of this company, with the exception of the first year's management, the company has paid to its stockholders a reasonable dividend—even through the depression, and in addition thereto has set aside a reasonable amount as a surplus. It is the thought of the management and its Board of Directors that the stockholders of any concern are entitled to a reasonable income on their investment and a reasonable surplus to keep the business healthy at all times—and any earnings of the Company more than enough to take care of the reasonable dividend and surplus should go to the employees of the Company who earned it. Therefore, it is the policy of this Company to distribute its earnings to its employees in the form of bonuses from time to time during the year and at the end of the year, as it is earned. There has not been a dollar's worth of stock of the Grenada Grocery Company passed hands for less than its par value during the present management of the Company—and in addition to its cash dividends and surplus now on the books of the Company, the Company has issued a 50% stock dividend. In other words, for every dollar's worth, the stockholders now own a dollar and fifty cents worth of stock.

Time For Seeding Permanent Pastures

State College, Miss.—As the time for seeding permanent pastures approaches, the Mississippi extension service emphasizes the advantages of planting a mixture of grasses and legumes.

A mixture of several grasses and clovers, says R. E. Waters, extension pasture specialist, provides a balanced ration for all classes of livestock, furnishes needed protein and minerals, lengthens the grazing season, increases the amount of grazing and helps to maintain the nitrogen supply in the soil.

The state extension service has made recommendations on seeding mixtures for the major types of pasture soils in the state. Each farmer is urged to study his soil and plant the mixture of grasses and clovers suited to it.

The leading pasture grasses of the state include Bermuda, Dallas, and carpet grass. The principal clovers are lespedeza, yellow hop and White Dutch. Specific information on grass and clover varieties, seeding mixtures and planting practices may be obtained from county agents.

The terracing of hill land to control erosion and conserve moisture is strongly recommended. Old crop rows should be leveled by disking if the land was previously in row crops.

Plowing, disking, and harrowing are recommended to suppress undesirable growth where land is infested with weeds and where there is a poor stand of desirable pasture plants.

Lime and fertilizer should be applied after plowing and before disking. The seed bed should be firmed by rolling unless settled by heavy rains before seeding. Disk lightly for additional seeding in pasture with desirable grasses and clovers, sow seed and harrow or drag with tree to press seed down into the soil.

Test Shows Value Mulching Gardens

State College, Miss.—The value of old newspapers, sawdust and pine straw as a mulch in the production of leafy garden vegetables has been demonstrated by horticulturists at State College.

Turnips planted on July 16 and mulched with newspapers, sawdust or pine straw, produced three times

Snap-Bean Mildew May Be Checked By Sulphur-Lime Dust

Disease Dwarfs the Plants, The Pods Become Spotted, Leaves Drop Off.

Application of sulphur-lime dust, 75 percent sulphur and 25 percent lime, effectively controls powdery mildew, a fungus disease affecting the fall crop of snap-beans, says Mayo McKay, extension horticulturist at Mississippi State College.

The disease dwarfs the plants, the pods become spotted, and the leaves drop off. In most instances the fungus develops following light rains in September or early October.

The time to begin dusting is when the first signs of the disease appear on the leaves. Additional dusting should be made at ten day to two-week intervals. Generally two to three applications are sufficient, says McKay.

Experiments conducted by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture show that either sulphur dust or a sulphur spray may be used. Sulphur-lime dust mixed at the 75-25 proportion, however, is more effective, easier to handle, and more economical than the spray.

The experiments show also that different varieties vary in degree of susceptibility to the mildew. Information on the comparative resistance or susceptibility of different varieties may be had upon request to the extension horticulturist.

As much as turnips on check plots, reports S. W. Davis, assistant extension horticulturist.

Plots ten feet square are planted in the tests. The sawdust mulched plot yielded 25.8 pounds of greens, the newspaper plot produced 21.2 pounds, the pine straw plot approximately the same amount, while the check plot yielded only 8.3 pounds.

Detailed information on each method is given in The Garden Guide, issued by the extension service, and which may be had upon request to county extension agents.

Davis suggests that gardeners check their planting list and if the following vegetables have not already been planted they should be planted at once: Beets, carrots, Swiss chard, lettuce, mustard, onions, parsley, English peas, radish, spinach and turnips. Cabbage may be transplanted to the field during the latter part of September.

World's Largest and Finest Herefords at State Fair

Orville Domino, magnificent Hereford bull, recently purchased by T. C. Potts of Grenshaw, from the world's largest and finest herd, will be shown at the State Fair in Jackson this year. Mr. Potts recently spent $8,000 for animals to add to his herd and will bring number of them to the fair.

1,825,000 Pounds of Pork Cured At 40 Cold Storage Plants

Artificial Refrigeration as a Means of Reducing Meat Losses On The Farm

State College, Miss.—Mississippi farmers in increasing numbers are using artificial refrigeration as a means of reducing meat losses on the farm. During the past season approximately 11,000 farmers cured 1,825,000 pounds of pork at 40 cold storage plants in the state, reports Paul F. Newell, extension animal husbandman.

The home mixed curing formula recommended by the state extension service was used by all of the plants. Some plants, Newell said, have found slight variations from the 8-2-2 formula effective for certain pieces.

County agents and extension livestock specialists conducted method demonstrations in slaughtering hogs, cutting and curing pork during the curing season.

The training and use of 4-H club pork demonstration teams as a new feature of the educational work in meat curing proved highly successful and additional work along this line will be attempted.

In Attala county, County Agent A. H. Simmons trained a 4-H team who cooperated with Manager Graham of the curing plant at Kosciusko in a number of slaughtering, cutting and curing demonstrations, which Mr. Graham believes will do much to improve methods of handling pork on farms of that county.

The Attala county team will conduct cutting and curing demonstrations each day at the Mississippi free state fair at Jackson, October 11-16.

Extension circular 91 illustrates, pictorially, the work of this and similar teams.

Egg Prices Highest In Winter Months

State College, Miss.—How poultrymen may secure high production of eggs during the late summer and fall months when egg prices are usually highest is told by J. D. Sykes, extension poultry specialist.

Liberal feeding of balanced rations, provision of green grazing crops, proper housing and protection against parasites, are essential, says Sykes.

Early hatched pullets should be placed in the laying quarters as soon as they begin to lay a few eggs and fed a good balanced laying ration. Farmers who have an abundance of corn at home will find it both satisfactory and practical to use their corn with one of the commercial supplements.

At the time the pullets are housed, Sykes advises that they be culled carefully and inspected for infestation of lice. If found lousy, they should be dipped in a solution of one ounce of sodium fluoride to one gallon of water.

Adequate feeding space is essential to secure best results. The pullets should be allowed one foot of hopper space for each five birds. Houses should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected prior to placing pullets in them and the houses should be well ventilated until the weather turns cold.

One nest should be provided for each five hens and an abundance of clean fresh water should be available at all times. The best arrangement is to have a five foot hopper with an eight quart water bucket at each end of it.

This program if followed will enable farmers to take advantage of the increase in prices of eggs. Demonstration poultry farms throughout the state in July showed an average production of 13.6 eggs per hen with a labor income above feed cost of $16.10 per 100 birds, Sykes reported.

6,087,000 Acres In State Under AAA Program

Approximately $10,806,998 in Soil Conserving and Soil Building Payments

Mississippi farmers cooperating in last year's agricultural conservation program diverted 967,300 acres in the most extensive soil improvement program ever undertaken in the state, reports T. M. Patterson, administrative officer in charge, AAA Jackson.

The 83,200 farmers who made application for payment under the 1936 farm program had a total of 6,087,000 acres of cropland and will receive approximately $10,806,998 in soil conserving and soil building payments.

The state office expense for administering the program which ended June 30, and state and county expenses for the program prior to July 1, 1936 totaled $118,181.

The program in its first year played an important part in inaugurating the state's biggest farm improvement program. Division of land from soil depleting to soil conserving and soil improving crops, terracing, production of winter cover crops, establishment of new pastures, and application of mineral fertilizers and ground limestone, represent the most important farm practices carried out by cooperating farmers.

County agents and subject matter specialists of the Mississippi Extension Service are now conducting a vigorous campaign to get farmers to plant an increased acreage to winter cover crops as the best means of controlling erosion and improving fertility during the winter season.

Terracing of rolling cropland will also get under way on an extensive scale as soon as the cotton crop has been harvested, report county agents.

Adapted Seed Needed for 1938 Program

County agents are reminding farmers that they should harvest adequate supplies of soybean, cowpea, lespedeza, and other legume seed needed for the 1938 farm program.

The small supply of legume and grass seeds coupled with the greatly increased demand for such seed under the agricultural conservation program makes it important that each farmer save as much seed of adaptable varieties as possible, say the agents.

Surveys made of the seed situation show that demand for seed of soil conserving crops in 1937 and the 1936 drought, reduced the commercial reserve of seed of domestic clover, alfalfa, sweet clover, lespedeza, soybeans, cowpeas, velvetbeans, and of grass seed in general, to much lower levels than normally prevail.

In general, seed that has been grown locally for a period of years is likely to be well adapted, and if properly harvested, stored, and cleaned, may be expected to give excellent results.

BEEF CATTLE SHOW CREATES INTEREST

A premier beef cattle show will be an added attraction to visitors at the 1937 Mississippi Free State Fair in Jackson October 11-16.

Inclusion of a superb beef cattle display as part of the livestock show is made possible by the appropriation of $1000 for premiums by the State Fair management. It will be the first time in many years that beef cattle have been shown at the fair.

Interest in beef cattle production in Mississippi has mounted to a high pitch during the past two years as a result of livestock shows, improvement in prices and an intensive educational program sponsored by the Mississippi Extension Service and the State Livestock Association.

It is believed that the cattle show will still further accelerate the recent rapid growth made in this important industry. Cash returns from cattle last year totaled over ten million dollars.

In addition to the splendid animals already owned by beef cattle-men of the state, some of the breeders have recently purchased some of the most noted Hereford individuals in the United States, having been first prize winners in some of the country's largest cattle shows.

SPECIAL SHOW FOR SCHOOL STUDENTS

Ernie Young will present his famous "Cavalcade of Hits" in a special performance at the Mississippi State Fair in Jackson, Friday morning, October 16, Fair officials announce. This extra performance will be the only matinee presentation of this troupe during the entire Fair week and is being given solely for the purpose of permitting public school children and college students to view this remarkable spectacle. Reduced rates will be in effect for all students, and the show will begin at 9 o'clock.

Home Meat Supply To Reduce Hurt of Low Cotton Income

Relatively stable grain markets despite bumper yields point to another year of high priced meats and add to the assurance that State farmers who produce and preserve adequate meat supplies will profit almost as never before, writes J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture.

There is usually a very direct relationship between the price of grains and the price of meats, the commissioner stated, and grain prices have not suffered the setback experienced by cotton, though production is generally as abundant. High priced grains mean high priced hogs, feed cattle, and sheep, and we may therefore expect to continue to pay dearly for purchases of meats of all kinds.

Mississippi, unfortunately, purchases large quantities of pork, bacon, lard, beef, and poultry products, and this means that much of the farm income goes for this purpose. To end this customary expense is in fact to add just that much to the farm income, hence, the importance of good gardens plenty of milk and butter, increased numbers of poultry, home canned beef, fresh and cured pork.

"By starting now, plenty of pork for the winter and following year will be both easy and inexpensive. Lack only proper feeding and additional most farms have enough pigs and tional pigs may be purchased at small cost. Table scraps and otherwise waste milk help out wonderfully in feeding them, along with green feeds from fields and gardens. Much weight will be gained by salvaging the culled sweet potatoes, syrup skimmings and the like, and by giving the porkers the run of fields of peanuts, soybeans, and cowpeas after harvest.

"In addition to all this, Mississippi has one of the best corn crops of recent years, and local markets may not be so attractive. Certainly farm supplies will be abundant, and corn fed in a balanced ration to fattening pigs will find an immediate and profitable market.

"Mississippi is making wonderful progress in dairying and in beef cattle production. The increased number of hogs on farms, for with curing facilities generally available and with the home market always the most profitable market, there is at present the opportunity to profit almost as never before from pork production."

THE RHODES BAKER FAMILY

The next son, Clifton, was also a promising young lawyer but died early. Mr. Jeff Davis Baker was a farmer living near Duck Hill, now in Phoenix, Arizona. Mr. Eppie Rhodes Baker the youngest son, also farmed near Duck Hill, he was a most lovable character, he was twice married, first to Miss Holman, then to Mrs. Donna Dale Patton. Mr. Ep is well and favorably remembered by us all, he died in 1835 while in government employment. He left three sons, William, Eppie and Clifton, all fine young men, of the two daughters of Mr. Rhodes Baker, Miss Martha Ann married Mr. William Gattis, the then merchant-planter of Duck Hill. They afterwards moved to Memphis, where he died. They were parents of a lovable, respected and progressive family. Mrs. Gattis died about a year ago, while living out west.

The last daughter of the Rhodes Baker family, was Miss Fannie Lee, now Mrs. Secrest Andrew Morrison, Miss Fannie was for sometime, her father's right arm, doing all his secretarial work. She was an honor student at Oxford, graduating with diplomas in Greek, Latin, English and French. Miss Fannie served on the board of examiners of the county, taught school in the county and city public schools, she made an enviable reputation. She also upon the death of her distinguished husband S. A. Morrison, was principal of an important school in the southern part of the state, where she added to her already fame as a teacher. She is now prominent in Grenada civic affairs. Her husband, Mr. S. A. Morrison, was first a teacher in Grenada public school with a reputation second to none, he afterwards studied law, he was a fine lawyer. He served several terms in the legislature where he was a leader. He died while serving, his death was a blow to the county, a shock to the state. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison adopted Clifton Baker, a son of Mrs. Morrison's brother. They gave him a liberal education. Clifton now lives in Chicago, where he is honorably living up to the high standards of the Baker family.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

world a better place in which to live.

The church has plenty of competition and it is growing. Would you like to live in a place without churches. Read the stories of the pioneers of the western mining towns.

Our forefathers braved unknown seas to set up a new civilization that they might have freedom of worship. This freedom is threatened in all autocracies. The greatest threats in this country are the rival agencies that destroy men. They sound no bells to draw patronage. The lights blaze forth, the music boxes blare to lure men to destruction. The attendants lose their money as well as their souls.

Go to church Sunday and I assure that you will feel the urge to go forth the next week to live a better life. Answer the call to worship next Sunday morning, do your part in setting the right example. Join hands with those who would have Grenada the best place in Mississippi in which to rear a family. Say to yourself, I am going to church next Sunday if it has ceased to be a habit, determine to reestablish the habit and join hands with those who want this city to be clean not only in a physical sense, but best in a moral sense. The church needs your patronage.

at home should find the same standards supported and maintained at school. For those children who receive little or no health training at home, the school has a special responsibility.

The principal or teacher often finds opportunities for interpreting the health education program to parents. Parents are invited to attend health conferences at school demonstrations of health work by the children are arranged, and special health talks to parents are occasionally provided either directly or in cooperation with the parent-teacher association. Children frequently carry home health literature furnished by the state board of health together with some of their own handwork or compositions.

INTERESTING FARM EXHIBITS AT FREE STATE FAIR OCTOBER 11-16

Special County Farm Exhibits Will Feature Cotton Improvement, Soil Conservation, Processing

The 1937 farm show at the Mississippi Free State Fair in Jackson, October 11-16 will be the most varied and attractive ever offered fair visitors to the state's big exposition.

The multiple agricultural display this year will include a solid carload of educational exhibits from the United States Department of Agriculture, a mammoth corn show, 6 county farm commodity exhibits, an improved state 4-H club show, the Hinds County community displays, and special exhibits which will be put on by the State Plant Board, the State Forestry Commission, the Smith-Hughes Vocational agricultural students and the Soil Conservation Service.

The six special county farm exhibits will feature cotton improvement, soil conservation, sweet potato production and processing, tung oil production, sugar cane production and syrup manufacturing, and curing the farm meat supply.

Millions in extra cash from cotton through production of improved varieties and inauguration of better ginning will be the central theme of the cotton exhibit which will be put on by County Agent W. R. Lominick of Warren county, with the assistance of the Mississippi Extension Service and the Delta Experiment Station at Stoneville.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture cotton ginning laboratory at Stoneville has made important discoveries in connection with ginning cotton showing that from $4.50 to $7.50 may be added to the value of each bale of cotton through improved ginning. These new processes will be outlined in this exhibit. It will also show the progress of the one variety cotton improvement work in the State, tell the story of economical cotton production and improved handling practices.

Saving the state's greatest natural resource by conserving and improving soil fertility will be the central theme of the exhibit from Madison county which will be put on by County Agent J. C. Harris. Farmers face no more important or difficult problem than that of conserving and improving the fertility of their soils. This exhibit will show primary causes of erosion and outline proved measures for controlling erosion such as terracing, contouring, crop rotation, winter cover crops and restoration of the vegetative cover by returning steep lands to pasture or trees.

Nation wide interest has been aroused in the production and processing of sweet potatoes as an almost unlimited source of new farm wealth. Extensive experiments have been conducted recently to determine the best varieties to plant, the most profitable cultural practices and to improve and refine processing methods.

These important discoveries in connection with sweet potato production and starch manufacture will be portrayed in interesting details in the sweet potato exhibit which will be put on by Jones ment of education and the board of health to carry on their health program in the schools until healthy living is not only a subject to be studied at school but a vital, personal practice in the life of every Mississippian.

PLANNING PARAGRAPHS

(By Ruben L. Parson, Land Planner, State Planning Commission)
(Editor's Note: This is the sixth installment in a series of brief articles on planning activities in Mississippi prepared by the Land Planner for the state.)

Effective Communication To Authority

Perhaps the most difficult, certainly the most critical—step in planning comes after the plan has been drafted. Then the voters and their legislators must be informed concerning the manner of applying the plan and the public and legislative action necessary for its application. From this point forward planning depends upon public approval and support, with which legislation should accord.

The legislator strives to secure what his constituents desire. When he acts without their express request he does what he believes will benefit them. When they state their wishes his responsibility is much more easily and more effectively discharged.

Therefore, besides submitting a formal plan with recommendations to the lawmakers the planner should transmit to the public his proposed lines of attack. In this essential publication of facts and ideas the "PRESS," your own newspaper, if you please, becomes the planner's strongest ally. Here, indeed, lies an opportunity for the "public informer" to become a real servant.

Ultimately the legislator decides what shall be done. The planner has already stated what ought to be done, but because legal and scientific terms and attitudes are so widely different they may not be readily reconciled. Granting that the plan is good, its adoption will be assured if the planner states his case clearly—to an interested legislator. Unless each understands the other no planning can succeed. Neither can there be such mutual understanding unless both planner and legislator are sincere in their true purpose—promotion of the common weal.

Before January, 1938, when the state legislature convenes, each senator and representative will be presented with a bound copy of a Master Plan For Mississippi, including recommendations for legislation to authorize its effective application. Meanwhile, the Planning Commission shall, through these weekly paragraphs and other means, acquaint the citizens of Mississippi with the salient features of the plan in order that they may appreciate its value and encourage its adoption.
